

This study tested a 3D registration algorithm for pCT-based image registration in a realistic pediatric head phantom. An experimental proton CT scan of the phantom (reference) was transformed by random 3D errors with 6 degrees of freedom (DOF) and the algorithm was used to correct the mismatch between reference and transformed images.